Welcome to the January 2025 update from your support team in Children's and Youth Work for the United Reformed Church.

Dear Friends,

Happy New Year! I hope you are refreshed and refocused following the Christmas festivities and raring to go. If your church used our Advent resource, we would love to hear your feedback as we will be planning this year's resource very soon (!) – please email children.youth@urc.org.uk

We have new training opportunities for children's ministry and youth ministry, another opportunity to learn Makaton for churches, residential for 11-14s, 18-25s and of course Youth Assembly – so why not browse and find the perfect opportunity for you and some of the children and young people you work with to grow and flourish in 2025.

Blessings,

CHILDREN, YOUNG PEOPLE AND YOUNG ADULTS MAKING THE HEADLINES IN THE UNITED REFORMED CHURCH

November's Lundie Award was given to a talented and creative member of URC Children. Eight-year-old Poppy Taylor uses her skills to design and make amazing displays for her church noticeboard. She participates fully in the life of the church, where she is the only child attending.

Congratulations to Poppy on receiving the award and to the church for recognising and using her talents to such great effect.

14-year-old Joe Wood was the recipient of the award in December after being nominated by his church Children's and Families worker. Joe is a young leader at the church Kids' Club and Kids' Church, particularly using his technology skills as well as helping out generally. He is a great evangelist within his youth group and at the synod residential, sharing his faith and the gospel with his peers, and plans to do his work experience within the church. What an example of discipleship and a worthy recipient of the Lundie Memorial Award.

Do you know anyone 25 or under who is playing their part in the mission of God and deserves recognition?

Why not nominate them for the Lundie Memorial Award?

URC CHILDREN'S WORKERS TOGETHER: THE CONFERENCE This, our first ever Children's Workers' conference, was held at the beginning of November in Ripon College near Oxford and was heralded as a resounding success. Children's workers, both volunteers and employed, came from all over the country to enjoy a weekend of fellowship, equipping, worship and encouragement, sharing their joys and concerns and discovering mutual support. Members of the CYW team were there to offer workshops, worship, resources, and a family film night, complete with competition to make a junk-modelling house fly! There was a unanimous request for another event next year and the team are keen to try to make this happen, so watch this space!
